Tropa De Elite Â» Elite Squad, Adel. Ti.tl.The latest on California politics and government November 19, 2010 While several high profile cases are coming before the court of public opinion, including whether the state's new redistricting process unconstitutionally manipulates and manipulatable, another trial is ready to roll in Los Angeles Superior Court: whether California's version of "stand your ground" is the real deal. The case, People v. Morton and Nelson, is a civil case for wrongful death brought by Alfred "Bert" Morton and his wife, Melanie Arleen Morton. They are suing the city of Los Angeles for Morton's death in the 2008 shooting. The case is set for trial in February. According to the Moores, the Morgans contend that the city's "suicide by cop" policy, which protects people who shoot an attacker and/or injure that attacker before he can shoot them, lets police commit misconduct by not investigating aggressive or suspicious behavior toward police officers before the officer is attacked. The lawsuit also asks that the policy be declared illegal. The case, however, will hinge entirely upon the testimony of a psychologist -- Dr. Robert Merritt, who is well known for his 3e33713323
