Today i found some cool big guys on my ride and my bike stopped! Surprisingly enough the bike was not damaged so i think i will have it fixed soon! Anyhow, I was on my way home, and on that day i had some very strong hydrostatic locks! it was a brand new day, and i saw a big guy. BMW R1200 GS 2009 & 2011. More Details. This one looks like it would be quite the eyesore for a police car, who would want to save a bunch of money by not following the speed limit? Find motorbikes and go for a ride Of course there will be a lawyer, then there will be a motorist BMW R1200R Reproms Free For those not familiar with it, this is the nomenclature that the BMW motorcycle community uses. "Reprom" means that the ECU (Electronic Control Unit) on that particular motorcycle is in the 6th or higher memory block Tagging a motorcycle is fairly easy, and requires an RMC tag. The Reprom (pronounced reh-PREM) code by whatever name you want to call it, is a collection of parameters stored in the ECU (Electronic Control Unit). The ECU runs on the same principle as a home computer, and stores all the information that the motorcycle wants to know about, or send to the various devices on the
